

We are delighted to have Kathy Giacoletti from Wycote, PA as our invited dance teacher. Kathy has been dancing most of her life, starting with Kinderdance (which she hated!), followed by many years of ballet and jazz training. She fell in love with Scottish Country Dancing at Swarthmore College when she was recruited for an International Dance Club performance - Kathy's first Scottish Country Dance was Schiehallion! While at Swarthmore she also started learning highland and step dancing and has been a passionate Scottish dancer ever since. Kathy teaches SCD in the Delaware Valley Branch, along with her husband Justin, and they are delighted that their daughter Elena has become an avid Scottish Country Dancer as well. Kathy also competes in highland (lured out of retirement by Elena, who started at age 5) and holds a teaching certificate in highland from the BATD. When she is not dancing Kathy can be found reading or cooking or playing with her cats. And to support all of these other wonderful things in her life Kathy is a statistician.
